

January 31, 2014

Hi,

I just had to write and brag about the spary foam job done on my basement. This has been the coldest year that I've experienced since living in this house. The basement in past years usually stayed near 20 – 30 degrees. This year it hasn't gotten lower than 50. I know that I have saved oil.

I filled the oil tank in early Nov. The oil company came a couple of days ago and filled it again although it was at 1/3 of a tank. That's much better than past years.

I've had a few visitors, one in particular who is fixing up his house. When I showed them the beautiful walls of the basement, they all have marveled at the wonderful job! I'm hoping that the people fixing their home up in Vassalboro will want the same job done. I'll be happy to send them your way!

I'd be your spokesperson any time you needed one. I'm so proud of the job done in the basement. It has improved that area of my house in more than one way! Thanks for the job well done!

Meredith Carr